A disastrous fire which destroyed four buildings and at least a dozen business places and offices, besides living apartments, did damage conservatively estimated at $75,000 in Ellenville this morning.

The fire is said to have started in the rear part of the Albert building, for many years known as the Eaton corner, on the corner of Canal and Market streets, about three o'clock this morning.

The fire swept up the southwest side of Canal street until it was finally stopped and gotten under control about six o'clock, when it had reached the large Brick Block building.

The buildings, comprising the oldest business section in Ellenville, were of wooden frame construction, with the exception that about a year ago the Albert building was given a brick veneer at a cost of $10,000 or so. All are a complete loss.

under direction of its veteran chief, C. G. A. Fischer, assisted by Fred J. Fraw, assistant engineer, did fine work in the freezing weather, the thermometer being about 15 above when the alarm was sounded. The three village pumpers were in use and altogether some eight or ten lines of hose were in operation. The water froze almost as fast as it struck and the firemen were coated with ice before they were given a chance to rest. A service of refreshments by Van Kleeck and Krom was greatly appreciated by the fire-

Although the fire was considered under control by six o'clock, several lines of hose were still playing water on the ruins last night.

Occupants of the burning buildings were compelled to flee in their night clothes, without attempting to save any of their belongings. Firemen awakened Dr. James Lightcap and carried him down a ladder and Mrs. Jacob Silz and children escaped.

The fire at first swept through the tops of the buildings, under the tin roofs, then back-tracked, completing destruction as it made its way along the ground floors.

The Albert building, in which the Next was the building occupied on the ground floor by Mrs. Jacob Seiz as a dress and drygoods store and

The two remaining stores were those of Joseph Bonomi, who conducted a dress shop and the Grand Union Tea Co. store. Over these were the dental offices of Dr. L. H. Aron and the law office of Philip Kutsky.

The buildings which were destroyed were owned by the Estate of Albert Abraham Rothkopf, former Sheriff H S Wells and S. H. Tucker.

Republicans Resent Governor's 60-Point State Crime Program

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—Speedy enactment of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's 60-point program to curb the criminal encountered crystallized resistance from Republican quarters in the Legislature today.

Pressure on the brake pedal was first applied last night by Assemblyman Horace M. Stone of Onondaga county, who warned against the careless passage of a "hodge podge" of crime bills which so seriously affect the fundamental law and the fundamental rights of citizens under the constitution.

The pressure to slow up was continued today with the announcement of James R. Robinson, (Rep.) of Tompkins county, that the Assembly code committee was ready to report to the floor "without recommendation" some 30 or 40 anti-crime bills. Robinson is committee chairman.

"These bills will not only include many found in the governor's 60-point anti-crime program, but will also include many measures introduced by individual legislators of both parties," Robinson said. "Some Republican members of the code committee are bitterly opposed to a number of these bills, but Republican legislators believe that it is far better to give the members an opportunity to vote on the anti-crime measures than to strangle them in committee."

It was significant that neither Stone nor Robinson specifically came out against the principle of enacting anti-crime legislation. This can be explained by the fact that both parties are committed to a program aimed at curbing the criminal.

Nevertheless, Stone took more than a half hour of last night's session to warn his colleagues against hasty action.

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER STURGES, JR.

Albany, Feb. 4. (Special).—As the Assembly Chamber clock registered 8:30 last evening the gavel of Speaker Ives fell to call the weekly session to order. Each meeting to date has begun with railroad accuracy.

One major surprise last night was the new overhead lights in the Assembly. It was nearly daylight in illumination. The Democratic leader promptly reminded those assembled that it was his party that voted for these new lighting fixtures, but Oswald Heck, Republican floor leader, fired back that the O. O. P. had shown the citizenry of the state the real light. While Democrats are officially credited with the improvement, needless to say it is a great help.

The "Bugs" Speak Severely. Horace Stone, 14 years an assemblyman from Onondaga, known as the Sage of Marcellus, blasted away in the lower house last night in the longest speech that has been delivered in the legislature this session.

Attacking first the anti-crime measures as recommended by the governor and then charging that the constitution, which he declared was a great personal document for protection of rights of private lives, gave the executive branch of the government adequate power to execute laws and that no new laws were needed but old ones should be enforced, this speaker, in a 40 minute address, assailed the governor's program that has been presented to the legislature over a period of years. Not alone was Mr. Lehman attacked, but his predecessors as well.

Mr. Stone declared that legislation for this part of the program was "hodge podge being shoved down our throats" and that they were in a moment of hysteria in their sudden effort to wipe out organized crime.

"Don't succumb to whims and caprice," shouted Mr. Stone in his warning, and added that the chief executive did not have the courage to enforce present laws. He strongly urged that the political dividing line be forgotten during consideration of the crime measures.

The Onondaga gentleman was joined by John J. Byrne, New York Democrat, who sided with his views as far as the crime bills were concerned.

Schools: Not Prisons. Assemblyman Robert J. Crews, sole Republican from Kings county, today sponsored a bill to provide a referendum for the people authorizing a three hundred million dollar bond issue for building schools throughout the state.

Said he, "It is better to build schools now than to build more prisons later."

In his statement Mr. Crews added, "It is also pertinent to recall that statistics show it costs about one-half less to keep a child in school than it does to keep a convict in Sing Sing prison."

Today, let it be remembered, one-third of our state tax money goes for education. It is believed that Mr. Crews will not be favorably reported out. A sub-committee of the Board of Regents is working out a comprehensive plan now to consolidate certain districts where schools are located or should be located, and it is likely that the governor would never give his approval to a bond issue of this size for this purpose. In his argument for it, however, Mr. Crews points out that money might be more wisely spent for a thing of his recommendation than for boondoggling and fancy dancing. He further points to absorption of unemployed to some degree by use of men on such buildings as would be required.

Wicks Extends TERA. A move was made by Senator Arthur H. Wicks last evening to extend the life of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration to April 1, 1936. Under the present law this administration would expire the 15th of this month. By April it is believed the work that this department is now doing will be fitted into the Department of Social Welfare. This is what Senator Wicks and Governor Lehman both want so that relief in the state may be placed on a permanent operating basis to care for future depressions.

Another minor bill by Kingston's upper house representative, is one to include Fort Washington, Long Island, in the extension of civil service to police departments. A special police district is maintained in this community and it has been necessary to have a separate measure to include it in the proposed requirement of having all police officers in first, second, and third class villages take civil service examinations for eligibility in holding office. Mr. Wicks has acted at the request of Peter J. Kererman, also of Kingston, who is secretary of the New York State Policemen's Association.

Quiet Celebration. Llandan, Cardiff, Wales, Feb. 4 (AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh passed his 24th birthday anniversary quietly today with his family in the seclusion of the home of his Welsh host, Llewellyn Morgan. "Colonel Lindbergh is entertaining friends," a member of the household said. "There are definite instructions that neither he nor Mr. Morgan be disturbed."

Kingston's Official Flag Adopted in 1920

Many Have Forgotten That Common Council 16 Years Ago Adopted Unanimously Design of an Official Flag Suggested by Judge Clearwater, City Historian.

Sixteen years is a long time and many have forgotten and still many others do not know that the city of Kingston has an official flag, which was adopted by the Common Council as the official flag of the city at its meeting on July 13, 1920. The flag is kept at the Municipal Auditorium where it is occasionally displayed, but those who have seen it were not aware that it was the city's official flag.

A rather interesting story lies back of the adoption of an official flag of the city. It was during the administration of the late Palmer Canfield, Jr., as mayor of the city that he took up with the late Judge A. T. Clearwater, then serving as city historian, the question of the city having an official emblem.

Judge Clearwater gave the matter considerable thought and on June 23, 1920, he wrote Mayor Canfield a letter suggesting that a city emblem be adopted and suggested that the flag have three perpendicular stripes, red, white and blue, and that there be emblazoned upon the central stripe of white a golden eagle with outspread wings, holding a palm in its talons.

The judge wrote that the trustees of the village of Kingston in 1807 had adopted as a seal of the city, a seal circular in form and upon the outer edge of the circle was inscribed the legend "Village of Kingston," while in the center was a golden eagle with outstretched wings having a palm branch in its talons.

The city historian believed that the city flag should use this eagle as the center emblem of the flag, the golden eagle being emblazoned against the background of the center white stripe of the flag.

thought so well of the suggestion that the judge's suggestion as to the flag was unanimously approved and an ordinance adopted creating it the official flag of the city.

The council also adopted a resolution that the city flag should be displayed together with the American flag at every session of the Common Council and this was done until 1927, when the city hall was gutted by fire, and rebuilt in 1928. Since then the flag of the city has not been displayed at the council meetings.

Pope Is Depressed

Vatican City, Feb. 4 (AP).—Vatican prelates said today Pope Pius was "mentally tremendously depressed" over continuance of the Italo-Ethiopian war, despite his desire for peace, and the confused dangers of the European situation. This mental depression, even more than physical tiredness, led the pontiff to cancel his public audiences yesterday, although he resumed them today, the prelates said.

Lodge Celebrates In Honor of Founder

Highland, Feb. 4.—In recognition of the founding of Odd Fellowship in this country by Thomas Widley, an Englishman, who came to the United States in 1817, Sunshine Lodge, No. 929, entertained a large party in the lodge rooms Friday evening with more than 100 present. The members and their families and the members of Vineyard Rebekah Lodge were in attendance. The welcome was extended by Noelle Grand George Wood, who introduced Jacob J. Donovan, Mr. Donovan gave a talk on the life of Thomas Widley and of the principles of Odd Fellowship, which were of interest. Previous to that prayer was said by the Rev. Devello S. Haynes, who later spoke, and also the Rev. Herbert Killander giving their congratulations to the order for the exceeding high requirements which they strive to attain.

The entertainment which followed was novel and new to Highland, although from Kingston north they have been well known through their entertaining and playing for dances in well known places. This was their eighth appearance this week and once a month they appear at the state school at Coxsack. Known as Sickles Entertainers, because they are sponsored by Postmaster and Mrs. Sickles of Saugerties, who accompany them and have made their home a meeting place for the 30 who compose the group. They have done credit to both Mr. and Mrs. Sickles. The first number was piano accordion solos by Joe Vinga, a 13-year old boy who knew how to handle his instrument. He has been playing for the last two years and has received his training from a Kingston instructor, Roger Schwartz. The Barnyard Hayseeds, including 11 who were proficient in the banjo, mandolin, mouth organ, violins, accordion, rendered several selections followed by a solo, "Danny Murphy's Little Daughter." Nellie Lavelle, Don Martino gave a selection playing the mandolin and mouth organ at the same time; Billy Lavelle graphically sang "I Wish I Single Again," accordion solo, Joe Vinga; the Lavelle brothers in costume sang, "Barnacle Bill the Sailor," a trumpet solo by Donald Schneider, a 17-year-old school boy, proved his skill on that instrument; and he had to respond to an encore, the Hayseeds then gave four numbers, "Mountain Round the Mountain," "Mountain Music," "Cut Down the Old Pine Tree," "The Old Gray Mare," Luther Lavelle in a well acted solo sang "Not as Young as I Used to Be," a bum song sung by two bums, Willet Overbaugh and William Gardner; Billy Lavelle sang two numbers, "Sipping Cider Through a Straw" and the "Man on a Flying Trampoline," a violin solo and encore by Emmet Zeigler; solo, "They Gave Simply Wild Over Me," William Gardner and a solo and encore by Willet Overbaugh, who was accompanied by piano and violin; "The Old Village Choir," in which several of the number took part, including the deacon, and all in costume; a banjo and mouth organ number by Don Martino and the program closed by the Hayseeds singing "Hand Me Down My Walking Cane," "Old Gray Bonnet," "Highland Girl," "Music Goes Round and Round," and "Take Me Back to My Boots and Saddles." Mr. Donovan introduced Frank Miller of Gardiner, the district deputy, who was present with his staff: Mrs. Ralph Dirk, district deputy of the Rebekah district; Mrs. Julius W. Blakely, past assembly musician; Harvey Tompkins, president of the Noble Order Association.

The committees then served sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee and it was well past midnight when the company dispersed and in a temperature well below zero. The entertainers from Saugerties were Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Sickles, Edith DuBois, the pianist, Emmet Zeigler, William D. Gardner, Willet Overbaugh, Luther Lavelle, Billy Lavelle, Don Schneider, Richard Powers, Don Martino, Clifford Cole, Joe Vinga.

BROADWAY CROSSING

Mayor Hekelman is to be congratulated in reliving the question of eliminating the Broadway Crossing,
 a problem presented by past adminis-
 trations and defeated time and again
 through the joint efforts of the railroad and various business men who believe their properties will be adversely affected.

There can be little doubt that the majority of the citizens of this city
 want the crossing eliminated. The reasons are numerous and include
 the tying up of traffic several times
 per day through switching of freight cars, the possible blocking of the crossing during an emergency, and apparent lack of cooperation between train crews and traffic so that both
 are unnecessarily inconvenienced.

Every effort has met with defeat
 so far. Either the railroad has made counter proposals to the city's suggestions which were unacceptable or
 the Broadway merchants located in the vicinity of the crossing have raised a protest designed to defeat
 the plans.

Just what will come of the mayor's present plan, to be presented to the Common Council tonight, can not be predicted. It is to be hoped that it will meet with more success
 than past ventures, and that the city will be able to eliminate the crossing, a bothersome and dangerous place, despite expected efforts of railroad and merchants to prevent
 it.

FUTURE AUTOS.

It is pleasant to take a jump into
 the future along with an automotive
 engineer named Austin M. Wolf, and see what cars are going to be like ten years from now. He says the car is going to be shaped like a tear-
 drop with the big end forward and
 the motor in its rear end where the luggage is carried now. There are individual seats for five people as usual, only instead of two sitting in front and three in the rear as has been the custom, it will be the other way. There are double tires on the rear wheels, and the tires are all protected from blow-outs because they are self-inflating. The battery,
 too, is self-inflating.

There are two fuel tanks, one with very high test fuel for starting in cold weather, and the motor itself shifts to the lower-test tank when it warms up. Instead of the usual
 cluster of finely graduated gauges,
 there are only two instruments graduated—the speedometer and gasoline gauge. The others merely show a green light when everything is going
 right, and a red light when anything goes wrong. Both brake lever and gear shift have moved up to the instrument board and a mere touch
 suffices for braking or changing
 speed. It doesn't sound impossible.
 There has been as much progress as
 this in the last ten years, and all of these changes are along present lines
 of development.

USEFUL BANISHMENT.

The present legislature of the state
 of Massachusetts proposes to correct
 a grave error committed by the people of the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1633. It may revoke the banishment of Roger Williams, the Puritan settler who was driven into the wilderness because he refused to accept the New England theocracy.
 This action resulted in the founding
 of the city of Providence and later
 of Rhode Island.

The matter is called to mind at
 this time by the coming bicentennial
 of Rhode Island, which is to be celebrated in various ways throughout the year. The proposed gesture
 of good will toward Rhode Island
 won't change history, though it may make the Massachusetts settlers feel embarrassed and regretful.

As a matter of fact, all these early settlers in the various colonies resisted chiefly in increasing taxes
 to keep the colonies open.
 John Smith, well known father
 of lower Broadway, died at his home
 here.

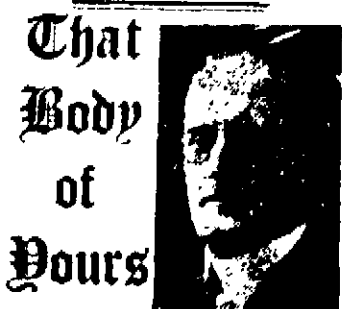

Augustus H. Van Buren appointed
 Kingston City Judge by Mayor Morris Black.

and started other groups of their
 own. Thus colonizing moved ahead
 at a quicker pace. Perhaps the Rhode Island legislature, as a ter-
 centennial recognition of past service, should adopt a resolution of appreciation for the helpful action of the Massachusetts Bay colonists 300
 years ago.

WINE FOR RECOVERY

Maybe wine will make you prosperous. This idea is contributed by Frank Schoonmaker, a New York
 wine expert. If every man in the United States would drink four glasses of wine a week, he figures 1,500,000 men would be put back to work. Others may say, if wine consumption is so good for business,
 why not drink four glasses a day, as
 people are said to do in some European countries, and make ourselves
 seven times as prosperous? That ought to put about 10,000,000 to work, vastly easing the relief burdens of the government and local communities.

Many, however, would prefer to have those 10,000,000 men making
 more durable goods, and contributing more permanently to our wealth,
 than they could do merely with things to drink. As for the moral argument, possibly Mr. Schoonmaker
 is on sounder ground there. "No
 nation with cheap wine," he observes, "is troubled with drunkenness." That is, no nation that drinks mild wines of natural alcoholic content. The nations known for drunkenness are those that drink
 "old" "strong" "strong" "strong"
 rum, and so on—and wines "fortified" with pure alcohol.

THE LENGTH OF YOUR BODY

Two brothers were being examined by the family physician, their ages being 18 and 16. The younger boy was about an inch taller than the older, and the older asked the physician if he thought he would grow any more as he didn't like being the shorter. Besides, the younger one would likely continue to grow.

The physician had them both sit down and see their heights in the mirror. The older one was more than one inch taller than the younger brother. "There is the answer,"
 smiled the physician, "you resemble your father's family who had long wide bodies and short legs, and
 your brother resembles your mother's family who were lean and lanky.
 You should be the stronger physically because you will have plenty of room for your stomach, liver, and intestines in the abdomen." The older brother was less dissatisfied.

It is an interesting fact that the individual with the short body and long legs is more likely to have a tendency to lung weakness, tuberculosis—because of his narrow chest.
 Unfortunately also his small intestine, the tube which receives the food
 from the stomach and prepares it
 for absorption into the blood, is often a number of feet shorter in length than in the individual with an average or long body. This means that more food should be eaten or rather that meals should be eaten
 more often to supply nourishment.

Thus two individuals of the same
 height, one with a short and the other with a long body might have the short body having 20 feet of small intestine and the other 30
 feet.

You can see that with a short
 body, narrow chest, small lungs, and
 a good generous food supply necessary to maintain strength, if his small intestine is short he may not get enough nourishment to fight off
 lung ailments in which food is so important.

On the other hand, the long bodied individual with big appetite, and
 long intestine, may eat so much more than he needs for the little bit of
 work he does, that liver, heart,
 bloodvessel and kidney ailments may readily attack him.

Remember, lung trouble in the
 short body, and heart, bloodvessel,
 liver and kidney trouble in the long
 body doesn't need to occur when ordinary care and common sense is used.

THE BOOMERANG CLUE

SYNOPSIS: Frankie Derwent
 has been a victim of a bad accident
 and is now in a hospital. He is waiting for a doctor to come and see him. He is feeling very bad
 and is thinking of giving up.
 He is thinking of giving up.
 He is thinking of giving up.

Chapter I.
 MEAN TRICK

"GEORGE, darling, this won't brighten your career, will it?"
 Frankie asked. "They won't strike
 you off the register, or whatever it is, will they?"

"Probably," said George gloomily.
 "That is, if it ever comes out."

"It won't," said Frankie. "Don't worry, George. I shan't let you down." She added thoughtfully,
 "You did it very well, I've never heard you talk so much before."

George sighed. He looked at his watch. "I shall give my examination another three minutes," he said.

"What about the car?"
 "I'll arrange with a garage to have
 that cleared up."

"George," said Frankie, "you've been an angel. I don't know why you did it."

"No more do I," said George.
 "Damn fool thing to do."

He nodded to her.
 "Bye-bye. Enjoy yourself."

"I wonder if I shall," said Frankie.
 She was thinking of that cool im-
 personal voice with the slight American accent.

George went in search of the owner of it, whom he found waiting for him in the drawing-room.

"Well," he said abruptly, "I'm glad to say it's not so bad as I feared. Convulsion very slight and already passing off. She ought to stay quietly where she is for a day or so, though." He paused. "She seems to be a Lady Frances Derwent."

"Oh, fancy!" said Mrs. Bassington-
 French. "Then I know some cousins
 of hers, the Draycotts, quite well."

"I don't know if it's inconvenient
 for you to have her here," said George. "But if she could stay where she was for a day or two—"

George paused.
 "Oh, of course. That will be quite
 all right, Dr—"

"Arbutnot. By the way, I'll see
 to the car business. I shall be passing a garage."

"Thank you very much, Dr. Arbutnot. How very lucky you have happened to be passing! I suppose a doctor ought to see her to-morrow
 just to see she's getting on all right."

"Don't think it's necessary," said
 George. "All she needs is quiet."

"I see. But her people ought to know."

"I'll attend to that," said George.

WELL, here I am, I thought Frankie. "Safely in the enemy's camp. Now it's up to me."

There was a tap on the door and
 Mrs. Bassington-French entered.

Frankie raised herself a little on
 her pillows.

"I'm so frightfully sorry," she said in a faint voice. "Causing you
 all this bother."

"Nonsense," said Mrs. Bassington-
 French. "Frankie heard anew
 that cool, attractive, drawing voice
 with a slight American accent, and remembered that Lord Marchington
 had said that one of the Hampshires Bassington-Frenches had married
 an American heiress. "Dr. Arbutnot says you will be quite all right in a day or two if you just keep quiet."

"He seems nice," she said. "He was very kind."

"He seemed a most capable young man," said Mrs. Bassington-French.
 "It was very fortunate that he just happened to be passing."

"Yes, wasn't it?"
 "But you mustn't talk," continued
 her hostess. "I'll send my maid along with some things for you and then
 she can get you properly into bed."

"It's frightfully kind of you."

"Not at all."

Frankie felt a momentary qualm
 as the other woman withdrew.

"A nice kind creature," she said
 to herself. "And beautifully unsuspecting."

For the first time she felt that she was playing a mean trick on
 her hostess.

"Oh, well," thought Frankie. "I've got to go through with it now. But I wish she hadn't been so nice about
 it."

She spent a dull afternoon and evening lying in her bed. Mrs.
 Bassington-French looked in
 once or twice to see how she was,
 but she did not stay.

The next day, however, Frankie

admitted the daylight and expressed a desire for company and
 her hostess came and sat with her
 for some time. They discovered
 many common acquaintances and
 friends, and by the end of that day
 Frankie felt, with a guilty qualm,
 that they had become friends.

Mrs. Bassington-French referred several times to her husband and to her small boy, Tommy. She seemed a simple woman, deeply attached to her home; yet for some reason or other Frankie fancied that she was not quite happy. There was an anxious expression in her eyes sometimes that did not argue a mind at peace with itself.

On the third day Frankie got up
 and was introduced to the master of the house.

He was a big man, heavily-jowled,
 with a kindly but rather abstracted air. He seemed to spend a good deal of his time shut up in his study. Yet Frankie judged him to be very fond of his wife, though interesting himself very little in her con-
 ceans.

Tommy, the small boy, was seven,
 and a healthy, mischievous child.
 Sylvia Bassington-French obviously
 adored him.

"It's so nice down here," said Frankie with a sigh. She was lying on a long chair in the garden.
 "I don't know whether it's the bang
 on the head, or what it is, but I just don't feel I want to move. I'd like to lie here for days and days."

"Well, do," said Sylvia Bassington-
 French in her calm, incurious tones. "No, really, I mean it. Don't hurry back to town. You see, I went on. It's a great pleasure to me to have you here. You're so bright and amusing. It quite cheers
 me up."

"So she needs cheering up,"
 flashed across Frankie's mind. At the same time she felt ashamed of herself.

"I feel we really have become
 friends," continued the other woman.

FRANKIE felt still more ashamed.
 It was a mean thing she was doing—mean—mean—mean. She would give it up! Go back to town—
 Her hostess went on. "It won't be too dull here. To-morrow my brother-in-law is coming back. You'll like him, I'm sure. Everyone likes Roger."

"He lives with you?"
 "Off and on. He's a restless creature. He calls himself the 'nerd-
 well' of the family, and perhaps it's true in a way. He never sticks to a job for long—in fact I don't believe
 he's ever done any real work in his life. But some people just are like that—especially in old families. And they're usually people with a great charm of manner. Roger is wonderfully sympathetic. I don't know what I should have done without him this Spring when Tommy was ill."

"What was the matter with Tommy?"
 "He had a bad fall from the swing.
 It must have been tied on to a rotten
 branch, and the branch gave way.
 Roger was very much upset because he was swinging the child at the time—you know, giving him high ones such as children love. We thought at first Tommy's spine was hurt, but it turned out to be a very slight injury and he's quite all right
 now."

"He certainly looks it," said
 Frankie, smiling, as she heard faint
 yells and whoops in the distance.
 "I know. He seems in perfect condition. It's such a relief. He's had bad luck in accidents. He was nearly drowned last winter."

"Was he really?" said Frankie
 thoughtfully.
 She no longer meditated returning to town. The feeling of guilt had abated. Accidents! Did Roger Bas-sington-French specialize in accidents, she wondered.

She said: "If you're sure you mean
 it, I'd love to stay a little longer. But won't your husband mind my battling in like this?"

"Henry?" Mrs. Bassington-
 French's lips curled in a strange expression. "No, Henry won't mind.
 Henry never minds anything—how-adays."

Frankie looked at her curiously.
 "If she knew me better she'd tell me something," she thought to herself. "I believe there are lots of odd
 things going on in this household."

Henry Bassington-French joined them for tea, and Frankie studied him closely. There was certainly something odd about the man. His type was an obvious one—a jovial,
 sport-loving, simple country gentleman.

But such a man ought not to sit
 twitching nervously, his nerves obviously on edge.

Nude Navigator Runs
 Into Sea-clad Reel

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—A nudist
 colonization of the Virgin Islands
 had to wait today while the rear-end of the movement turned to the present task of finding their school-
 or Fleetwood from a reef at the mouth of Hillsboro Bay.

Sailing under the command of Maurice Allard, married only by the Allard family and needing a harbor, the 45-foot vessel traveled
 but 10 miles on its 1,400-mile voyage to a nudist colony before being blown back yesterday.

Captain Allard—he would like to shift the title to someone more renowned in navigation—sought a navigator before the sailing but
 stipulated that nudity was requisite.

All the mariners in this vicinity
 proved too much attached to their clothes.

Aboard the craft with Allard are Mrs. Allard, two daughters and a son, all of San Francisco. Allard is a leader in the nudist movement,
 a group that is said to have obtained
 a tract of 1,000 acres on St. John's Island, near St. Thomas Island in the American Indian group. The site
 is about 25 miles from Puerto Rico.

When the first nudist colony came to America has never been determined,
 but it quite probably came on a steamship. Records in the Bureau of Plant Industry indicate that the hold
 of the ship which brought the nudists from Holland in 1930 may have carried a few previous bags of red clover seed, a crop that had been a staple in the "Low Countries" for many years. It is definitely recorded that a ship from Holland in 1925 carried, among other seeds,
 "all sorts of seed."

Trooper Coons Dons His Snowshoes and Plays Good Samaritan

Trooper Russell Coons, well known in this section, having been stationed at Saugerties with Sergeant Jim Cunningham for a long time, "got his name in the paper", to the extent of a column or so, recently, when he played Good Samaritan during the recent blizzard weather and took a long trip that involved mashing five miles on snowshoes, to take aid to a woman of 75, shut in by the storm and snow, with nothing but some flour in the house.

Trooper Coons, who has been located at Stamford for some time past, was on vacation that week, but he had a pair of snowshoes and his side kick, Trooper Harold Bentley, hadn't, so it looked like it was up to him when someone from the mountain country southeast of Oneonta telephoned in to Capt. Fox at Sidney Barracks that an aged woman, living alone in that neighborhood, had not been seen for two weeks and it was feared that she might be ill, or dead. The neighbors, it appears, living at a distance and likewise more or less snow-bound, had all they could do to keep things going themselves, let alone undertaking a hazardous journey, that was probably too late, anyway.

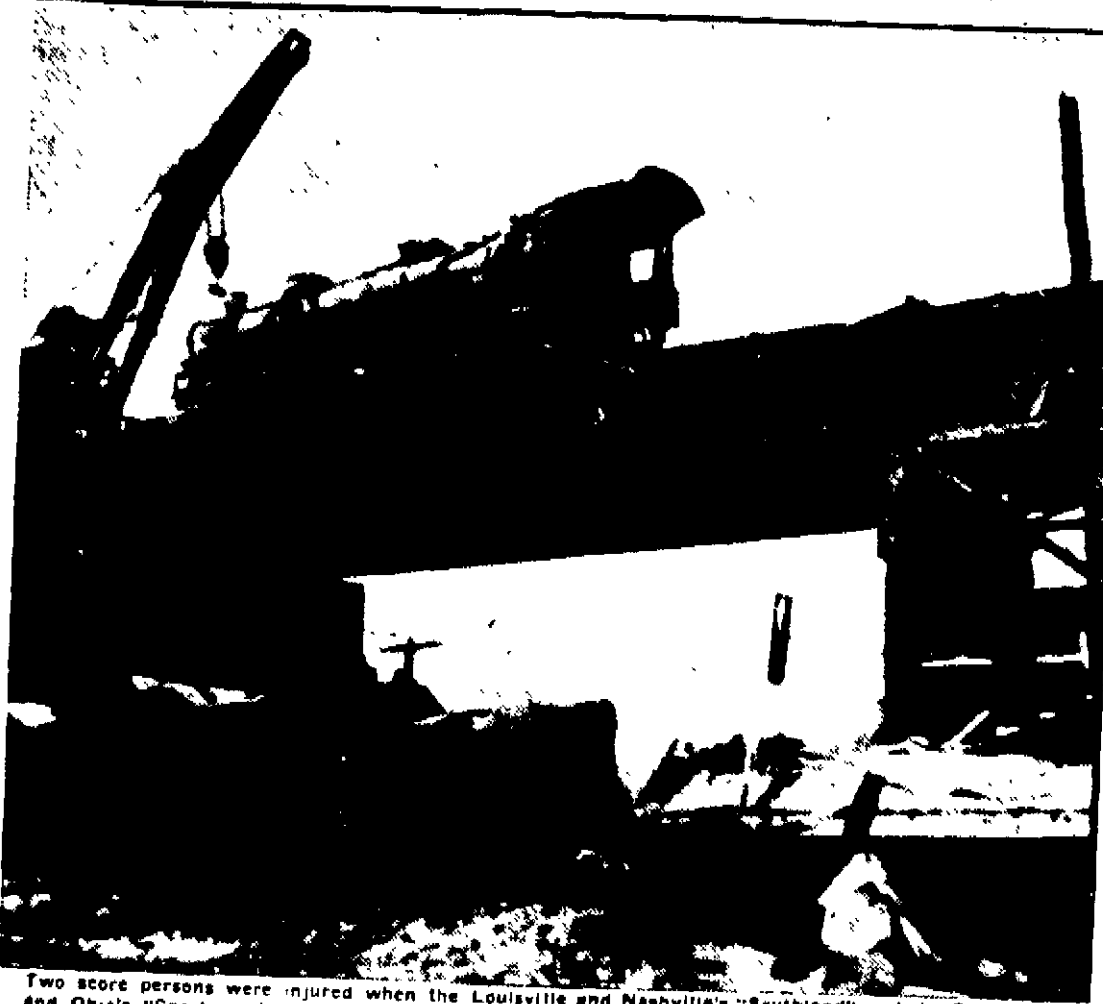

Continuing the story, the Mirror-Recorder says: "The region where the woman was supposed to live is in what is locally known as the Sweet Hollow road, the entrance to which is about a mile out of Oneonta. The actual place of residence left much to be desired as to description. Nevertheless, on Sunday after the message came at 11:30, Trooper Coons secured a knapsack, packed a small axe with which to cut wood if any were available, included some 'first aid' provisions, threw his snowshoes into the Troop car and lit out for the Sweet Hollow sector with the temperature down around zero.

Arriving at the crossroad he parked his car, adjusted his snowshoes and set out up the grade, following the course of the drifted road which had seen no travel for days. After laboring over drifts for several miles, Trooper Coons came to several abandoned houses, each of which he explored, for he was taking no chances. A woman isolated for two weeks might be dead. Finally after mounding the grade and going down the other side, at the end of a five-mile journey, Trooper Coons saw signs of 'heat' but no smoke, coming from the chimney of an old house. He entered the place to find the object of his search, Mrs. Margaret Bush, 75, and a half dozen cats. All were living in one room. The woman stated that the only semblance of food in the house was some flour and she was unable to get to her spring some distance away for water. She had a fairly good supply of wood, but there was little else but a tragic ending.

"Trooper Coons set about doing the 'chores' which included a snowshoe trip to the spring after a couple pails of water. Leaving his supply of food which was gratefully accepted, he set forth again to see what the neighbors down the valley could do in the way of temporary relief. On the way down he contacted the nearest neighbor who immediately set forth with some provisions. When he arrived at his car it was long after dark and somebody who had failed to find the lighting switch had hung a lantern on the Trooper's car as a precautionary measure.

"Arrangements were made to go to Mrs. Bush's place the next day and remove her to the County Home where she could receive proper care, at least during the winter."

Today

Broadway: "Strike Me Pink"

The annual Eddie Cantor opus, growing better and better by the year, rises to sparkling heights in this adaptation from a Clarence Budington Kelland story entitled "Dreamland." It tells, augmented by music, dancing and laughter, the history of a man with an inferiority complex who strives to be a man rather than a mouse. How he achieves his goal is the plot basis of the tale and Eddie Cantor sings and goes his sentimental way through one of the most elaborate screen offerings ever presented. Helped along by the torch singing Ethel Merman and the bewildering comedy of the radio famous Parky Kar-kus, the production is an expensive blend of humor and merriment. Mr. Cantor sings the catchy tune entitled "Calabash Pine" along with several other songs and with the help of the dancing Goldwyn Girls, the show moves briskly and tunefully to a panicky climax. The cast includes such added notables as Sally Eilers, Jack LaRue, Brian Donlevy, and William Frawley. The dance sequences under the supervision of Robert Alton and the music was under the guidance of Al Newman. Here is an evening of brilliant entertainment that fairly bristles with originality and color.

Kingsport: "Charlie Chan's Secret" and "Whispering Smith Speaks." Fiction's most intriguing detective in many a moon turns again to the screen as an outlet for his latest mystery and the oriental Charlie Chan, whose admirers are legend, is confronted with his most baffling problem to date. He solves it despite the efforts of evil forces working against him through the slow but Warner Oland, in the starring assignment that has already made him internationally famous, plays Chan with all the skill and realism of his former portrayals. So the adventurous Charlie Chan carries on even though his creator is dead and each talkie appears and grows more enjoyable than the last. The settings are laid in San Francisco where a man is murdered during a spiritualism seance. Others in the cast are Gloria Roy, Rosina Lawrence, Charles Quigley and Henrietta Crossman. "Whispering Smith Speaks" brings the best of the western heroes to the Kingston screen in a fast moving, reckless yarn of a man's courage and where it took him in the face of desperate odds. George O'Brien gives another excellent performance and his supporting cast is excellent. One of the better outdoor dramas that will be enjoyed by young and old.

Orpheum: "Harmony Lane." A tender and idealistic history of composer Stephen Foster and the melodies he wrote is seen on the Orpheum screen with Douglas Montgomery in the starring role and giving his finest screen performance in the bargain. The hardships and the romance of the American composer is carefully brought out and the whole show is a sentimental journey through the life of one of this nation's musical masters. Supporting Mr. Montgomery are Evelyn Venable and Adrienne Ames. Lovers of music will find this one especially appealing.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "The Three Musketeers"

The story Douglas Fairbanks made camera conscious several years ago becomes a slashing, devil-may-care adventure yarn in this RKO-Radio production that brings the romantic D'Artagnan, Aramis, Porthos and Athos back to the wars of 17th century France with all the intrigue and courtship of the French court. The time of the play is during Cardinal Richelieu's bitter struggle to keep the weak Louis XIII under his thumb. A dictatorial master of state, Richelieu directs the policy of France and he crushes his enemies with speed and dispatch. Into this intrigue rides the young D'Artagnan from Gascony and before he is finished, his blade has cut down many a traitor to the queen of France and his name is justly famous as a first class fighting man. He becomes one of the soldiers of Richelieu, bitter enemies of the soldiers of the French king. The cast offers Walter Abel, Paul Lukas, Ian Keith, Heather Angel, Margot Grahame, Ralph Forbes, Nigel de Bruin, Onslow Stevens and Moroni Olsen. The photography was by Ferverell Marley and the production was handled by Rowland V. Lee.

Kingsport: Same.

Orpheum: "Streamline Express"

and "Rip Roaring Riley." What happens on an experimental cross country run on a new streamline train is dramatically told in the comedy and a mixture of danger, love, comedy and lust. Victor Jory and Evelyn Venable head the cast of players. "Rip Roaring Riley" is the other full length attraction, an average melodramatic thriller with Grant Withers heading the players.

Landon Drive Now On in New York State

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—A campaign to "crystallize sentiment" in behalf of Governor Alf M. Landon of Arkansas for the Republican presidential nomination was under way in New York state today.

From the state headquarters set up in a midtown hotel (Astor) by supporters of the Kansas governor, came announcement of a drive to spread information about the westerner. The Landon backers, however, have no thought of entering delegates in the April primaries against candidates of the regular party organization. Albert Ottlinger, former state attorney general and head of the Landon forces here, declared: "State G.O.P. Chairman Melvin C. Eaton and National Committeeman Charles D. Hillier, adhered to their announced policy of seeking an un-instructed Empire State delegation to the Cleveland convention. Opening of an active campaign in behalf of Governor Landon, even though its purpose be only 'educational', was viewed in some circles as to early predictions that President Roosevelt's home state would become the eastern battleground for candidates seeking to oppose him in the election.

It followed within two weeks an address at a Republican rally here by Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, generally regarded as a candidate for the Republican nomination. Senator Borah's address, however, stressed the qualities he believed his party candidate should have and refrained from mention of any aspirations he may cherish. A Borah-for-President movement is already well under way in New York state. Former G.O.P. State chairman W. Kingsland Macy is one of the prime movers in the Borah movement.

100,000 Spending To Equip Convicts

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—The upstate Works Progress Administration will spend $100,000 in a program of social rehabilitation of prisoners in New York state correctional institutions, it was announced today.

Walter M. Wallach, director of education in the State Department of Education, said the money had been allotted as part of the $4,000,000 allocated by WPA Administrator Lester W. Horner for the adult emergency education program. The prison demonstration project is a part of that program. Wallach said the fund would be spent in special training of individual offenders in an endeavor to change their attitudes toward society and improve their habits of work and living.

"This may mean mental adjustment and it also may mean reformed physical health. Again our efforts with an individual may mean teaching him a trade or training him how to get a job and keep it." The WPA allotment, Wallach said, will employ 120 persons now on relief as teachers, psychologists, sociologists, clerks and stenographers. The five institutions that will benefit are Clinton Prison at Dannemora, New York Vocational School at West Coxsack, Wallkill Prison, established by the late William W. Thayer, Jr., as a pre-parole center, and Westfield Arm, where are located a prison for women and a reform school for delinquent girls.

Milk Is Least Expensive Item In Your Food Market Basket

Quart of Milk Affords More Health Protection and Good Flavor Than Any Other Food

By PETER G. TEN EYCK

Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, New York

THERE is no single change in the diet of the American people that will be of such benefit to them as the general use of one quart of milk a day for every man, woman and child.

Milk is a quick pick-me-up that produces lasting benefit.

That is not the statement of some "milk-as-the-sole-diet" fad, but the reasoned opinion of that guardian of the Nation's health—the American Public Health Association.

More Than Any Other Food

W. H. Riddell, associate professor of the Department of Dairy Husbandry, Kansas State College of Agriculture, recently gave a talk in which he said that investigation in many nutrition laboratories throughout the world has established beyond question that milk furnishes more food essentials than any other single food in the diet. Any increase in the proportion of milk consumed results in a greater degree of health and increased ability to resist disease. This is especially true in times like the present.

With family incomes reduced and the cost of living increasing, Professor Riddell said, the tendency too often in economizing on food purchases is to cut down on the amount of milk for family consumption.

For some reason, in the minds of many people, milk ceases to be a food and becomes a luxury when it goes beyond a certain price per quart. This is anything but good economy, for the evidence shows that one quart of milk buys more protection than is possible with any other foodstuff and as far as comparative costs are concerned, it is the most inexpensive item in the market basket.

It has become a common practice to refer to milk as the most nearly perfect food. So much so, that few of us ever stop to question the reasons behind that statement or appreciate its significance.

Advantages of Milk

It is the finest food source of lime and phosphorus. These are the bone and tooth building elements, and the slogan "a quart of milk a day for every growing child" was based originally on the supply of these minerals in milk. Today milk is recognized as the whole-family food, since it is difficult to meet calcium needs unless the diet of everyone includes some milk. Liberal consumers of milk generally have good teeth.

Milk in any form is a superior source of protein. It supplements the deficiencies of the grain products in our bread and cereal products to excellent advantage.

A booklet entitled "Why Cook With Milk" will be given free by sending a postal card to the Consumers' Information Service, Department of Agriculture and Markets, Peter G. Ten Eyck, Commissioner, Albany, New York.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Feb. 3.—An informal discussion will be held in the Woodstock library Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., under the direction of Florence Webster. The subject of this meeting will be "Tolerance."

Peggy Dodds, Woodstock artist, is exhibiting, "Dolls at Play" at the current exhibit of the National Association of Women Painters and Sculptors in New York.

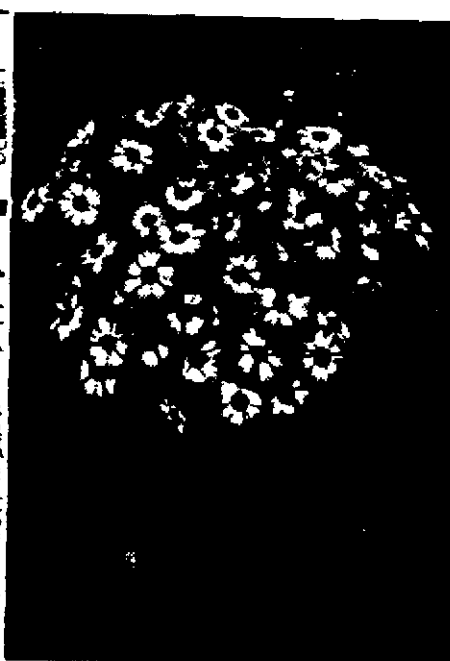

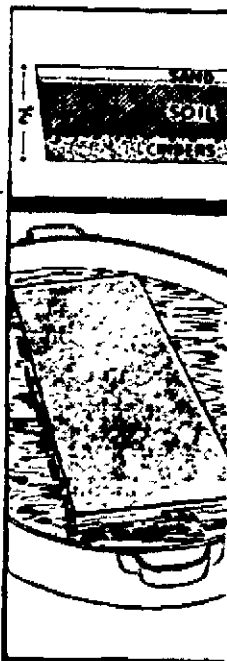

Jean Wiss of Orange, N. J., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Hanno Schrader at their Bearsville home.

The lecture given last week in the library by Walter A. Ireland was well attended. The audience found Mr. Ireland well qualified to discuss tolerantly the question of eastern politics. He spoke entertainingly as well as accurately, leaving his listeners glad that they had been able to hear him before he assumes his position in Albany.

Comment follows in the wake of the careless stenographer who, in typing a released speech for "Jere" Wadsworth wrote: "The New Deal also has appropriated hundreds of thousands of dollars for the improvement of bridal paths in its boondoggling program."

CARING FOR HOUSE PLANTS

ENJOY CINERARIA NOW, SOW SEED LATER

A gorgeous burst of pink or purple blooms for that low table—no wonder you "fell for" that low-growing cineraria!

It's a late winter favorite, and will keep blooming for weeks if you keep it out of direct sunlight, give it plenty of water on the soil, not on the leaves, and put it in a rather cool room.

Enjoy its gay flowers now; then along in May see whether the plant has set some seeds. Harvest them and plant them in a box two or three inches deep, as in our first sketch. Home-saved seed is all right the first year; after that, buy it at the seed store.

In the bottom of the box put a layer of cinders. Then add a layer of soil composed of one-third garden loam sifted through an old window screen, one-third rotted leaf mold, and one-third "torrefied" sand, as the building companies call it. It is coarse enough not to cake.

Press the surface level with a board, water and thin soil over it, sprinkle liberally with fine sand over the soil, and set the box in a pan of water to moisten the soil thoroughly. Then place the box in the shade on the north side of the house.

Keep the surface damp, but not wet. The seedlings will come up in about two weeks. When they get their first leaves, put them in 1- and 2-inch pots. Keep changing pots as they grow larger. Don't let the roots get the least bit pot-bound.

In August pot them in six-inch pots to take indoors, and use about three parts good garden soil and one part rotted cow manure. Keep them at about 45 degrees at night, 35 degrees during the day in the house, with a fair amount of moisture in the air. After the flower buds appear, give a cupful of weak liquid manure occasionally.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

After looking in on many of the spring style showings, it is perfectly obvious that costume suits and suit-jackets are expected to predominate in street apparel.

Your fashion reporter finds great variety in suit designs too, with un-flap pockets and a plain tailored der-coat suits for immediate wear, skirt—an ideal costume for warmer topcoat suits for early season wear, spring days when the plaid topcoat mannishly tailored suits that so is laid aside.

Then there are sports ensembles, very swagger, with ruffled shoulders, cape suits and others of dressier slash pockets and an open vent at type for more important daytime occasions for unhampered walking. These casuals. The mannish tailcoats and two-button topcoat can be worn swagger models are especially fashionable as a separate garment worn in two-piece and three-piece coat later in the season.

Dr. Rockwood Speaks To Mothers Here

In the Home Bureau room on Friday afternoon, Dr. Rockwood well known extension specialist in family life, author and lecturer in New York state, was the speaker at an informal gathering and tea given by a group of mothers from 11 other county. Those in attendance were greatly benefited by her most helpful and inspirational address. Dr. Rockwood is traveling from place to place, promoting the standards of successful family or group living in the home, through her lectures. This work has been carried on for several years in our county under the Cornell University Extension work, and our county leader, Miss Everette Parsons, of the Home Bureau.

In her address, Dr. Rockwood portrayed very clearly how parents, at times can be problems to their children. A child of three or four and up through the adolescent period has had to overlook or content with certain conditions or parent unthinkingly can establish in the home, which will affect the entire family. Parents should attempt to solve their problems of family life with as little emotional stress as possible. She advised that in setting up certain ideals for the children, parents should also look ahead and realize how these standards will materialize, and finally tend to develop their children into the respected and independent citizens our communities need today.

Dr. Rockwood stressed the needed cooperation of both parents in a family to bring about a successful home life. She advised group meetings with proper leadership, either through books or leaders for mothers and fathers, and also, young men and women planning for marriage, throughout the country. Several methods of having most interesting discussions for each group were suggested.

Men and women need education for marriage as well as earning a living. Dr. Rockwood believes that living successfully in families is of sufficient importance to devote the time and attention of both men and women and thus is devoting her time to meeting with parents and young people who are to establish homes of their own. "A person's outlook on life, his success in his chosen work, and the success of his own marriage, may be influenced for good or ill, by the kind of home life he has had," said Dr. Rockwood.

It is hoped that in the near future, the mothers and fathers, and also the younger men and women of Ulster county will again have the privilege of hearing such an interesting speaker. Such meetings will be announced through the Home Bureau office, and it is expected that these notices will attract many others who are anxious to maintain a wholesome and richly endowed American home life.

Since the method was inaugurated in 1910, 160 persons have been electrocuted for criminal offenses in North Carolina.

PREVENT DANGERS OF CONSTIPATION

"Bulk" in ALL-BRAN Is Gentle in Action

Common constipation is largely due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. You fail to get your internal exercise. Millions of people have found that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies soft "bulk" with satisfactory results.

Tests in nutrition laboratories demonstrate that the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN can be used with the utmost confidence. Naturally, those few individuals with diseased or highly sensitive intestines should not take "bulk" in any form—either in leafy vegetables or in bran.

Unlike cathartics, ALL-BRAN is natural in its action—nor does this food lose its effectiveness with continued use. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and cleanses the intestines, promoting normal and healthful elimination.

Two tablespoonsful of this delicious cereal, served with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Enjoy it also in cooked dishes.

Help your family keep well. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ONLY SELECTED FLOUR USED IN HOME LEADER BREAD

Every housewife knows that whenever a recipe calls for flour, the results depend on the quality of flour used.

That's why the Gruenewald's Bakers insist that all flour used in Home Leader Bread come up to rigid specifications. This insures uniformity and guarantees the same kind of bread dry and day out. That's why Home Leader Bread has grown so steadily in popularity and why it keeps its friends year after year.

Hit-Run Theory in Death of Student

Northampton, Mass., Feb. 4 (AP).—Police leaned today to a theory that a hit and run driver may have struck Francis O. Grose, Amherst College freshman, and dropped his broken body into the ice of Connecticut River.

Police Sergeant James J. Murphy pursued this line of inquiry into the death yesterday of the Great Neck (N.Y.) youth. Two other theories also were investigated.

Police Chief Bartholomew Brennan studied a cryptic notation found scribbled in pencil on an opened page of a text book in the boy's room. "The disaster hove in sight" were the written words.

There was not enough evidence in the scrawl to indicate suicide. Brennan said, and there was not enough evidence from wounds on the youth's body to indicate he had been slain wilfully.

His body lay on the river ice beneath a railroad trestle between Northampton and Hadley. Amherst College is eight miles away.

Valdo Grose of 120 Mill road, Great Neck, the boy's father, telephoned police he would come to Northampton at once.

The youth was seen in Amherst nine hours before his body was found and in the interval no train had passed over the trestle beneath which he lay.

3 Answers Possible Regarding Wells

Chicago, Feb. 4 (AP).—Law agencies of two states and the Federal Department of Justice today considered three possible answers to the unsolved disappearance of Harry H. Wells, well-to-do trucking contractor of Monroe, Miss., missing since last Tuesday.

They sought to determine whether he was slain in the hands of extortionists he told his family he feared, or hiding in Chicago to avoid the supposed blackmailers.

The search for Wells began after his bloodstained car was found abandoned Saturday in the Chicago loop. Yesterday a bunch of keys bearing his name was turned over to police by a man who said he found it on a much traveled road near Evanston, 10 miles from where the car was left. Relatives last heard from Wells Wednesday when they received a letter postmarked Cudahy, Wis., relating that he was "just about wrecked" by threats of extortionists.

"Blood Test" Slows Connecticut's Cupid

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 4 (AP).—Cupid's activities in Connecticut during January, the first complete month of the state's new "blood test" marriage law, showed a decided decrease in comparison with a similar period in 1935, it was disclosed today.

Associated press survey of leading cities and towns showed that, with one exception, the number of applicants for marriage licenses was less than in January a year ago.

Greenwich, the state's "Gretna Green," was one of leading "victims" of Cupid's let-down.

The act which became effective Dec. 27, 1935, is designed to prevent the spread of social diseases and compels each applicant for a marriage license to submit to a blood test. The ceremony cannot be performed if the test proves unsatisfactory.

Norwalk, where 12 couples applied for a license last month, four more than in January, 1935, was the only city to show an increase.

In Greenwich, 28 couples took out licenses during January. A year ago, 67 marriage certificates were issued.

Manchester and Derby, two of the state's smaller cities, reported a marriageless month. The former city had four weddings a year ago while Derby had six.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—The stock market confined its buying attention largely to specialties today, leaving many of the recent leaders without any particular support.

Conspicuous in the higher price range were merchandising, farm implement, oil and rubber issues. Heavy profit taking at the start caused the ticker tape to fall behind floor transactions. Realizing abated later as selective demand appeared. The motors and mines pointed lower, and a majority of the utilities, steels and rails were narrow.

The inflation issue was not so loud and the principal foreign exchange halted their move against the dollar. Cotton sagged and grains held to a slim groove. U. S. government securities rallied and corporation loans improved.

Advances of fractions to 2 or more points were recorded by shares of Penney, Macy, Woolworth, Case, Deere, Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck, International Harvester, Goodyear, Firestone, International Paper, Seaboard Oil, Atlantic Refining, Westinghouse, Motor Products, National Supply, American Can, Continental Can, Virginia Carolina Chemical, Western Union and American Telephone. Losses of around a point each were suffered by General Motors and Chrysler.

Schwarzkopf Seeks Outside Assistance

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 4 (AP).—The new investigation of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder case widened in scope today as Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, sought the aid of the federal and New York police.

Col. Schwarzkopf, who has been directed by Governor Hoffman to search for possible accomplices of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, wrote J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and New York police authorities requesting assignment of the same men who worked on the initial phases of the investigation.

A group of New Jersey legislators rallied to the support of Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf today in the face of unconfirmed reports that Gov. Harold G. Hoffman was considering his replacement.

Schwarzkopf, who headed the police hunt for the kidnaped and slain infant of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, recently was ordered by Governor Hoffman to reopen his search for persons connected with the crime.

The order came after the governor had granted a reprieve to Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who is under death sentence for the kidnap-slaying, and indicated dissatisfaction with the state police investigation. Mindful of a demand for Col. Schwarzkopf's reapportionment, coming largely from the state's rural areas, Assemblyman Henry C. Young, Jr., introduced a bill in the legislature last night to continue Schwarzkopf in office for the duration of an anticipated fight over his successor. Schwarzkopf's term ends in June.

12 Persons Dead In Tokyo Blizzard

Tokyo, Feb. 4 (AP).—At least 12 persons were killed tonight as the worst blizzard in 20 years swept the heart of Japan.

Property damage is known to be huge and a considerable loss of life is feared although communications were so disrupted that an immediate check was impossible.

The storm struck at noon, tying up transportation in the nation's greatest cities, disrupting trunk railways, and paralyzing industrial activity. Both Tokyo and Kyoto were in darkness tonight because of the failure of power plants.

More than 100 steamers were compelled to take refuge in ports. Many smaller vessels were unreported.

Il Duce Calls 2 Groups for Action on Embargo, Blacks Deny 'Victory'

Rome, Feb. 4 (AP).—Premier Mussolini called his two most important advisory groups—the supreme commission of defense and the Fascist grand council—into action today in Italy's skirmishing against a projected oil embargo.

Informed sources said the defense commission contemplated an exhaustive survey of Italy's military position for the future while the grand council took up problems of the immediate military program, principally in Ethiopia.

The defense commission's study was understood to include:

1.—Development of substitutes and foreign sources for raw materials.

2.—Maintenance of merchant marine operations in any future war time.

3.—Military discipline of the civil population in any extension of the East African conflict.

4.—Measures for protection of non-combatants.

The meeting of the defense commission was expected to continue for several days.

The grand council meeting probably will be adjourned pending developments at Geneva, where a League of Nations committee of governmental experts was considering practical problems of enforcement of the proposed oil sanctions.

Plans drawn up for presentation to the defense commission were understood to show that Italy was ready to face any European war arising from such an extension of war penalties being applied by the League.

Attending Lies.
Addis Ababa, Feb. 4 (AP).—The government issued a communique tonight branding Italian claims of a victory in the southwest as "astounding lies."

The statement asserted that the Ethiopian troops of that district retreated without resistance in order to take up "much more easily defensible positions."

The government admitted that "the retreat was not executed with the precision and rapidity which the general staff desired and therefore the Italians were able to surprise some convoys."

Alice Stages Party But Cold Kills Fun
New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—Alice, being an elephant, did not forget.

She broke out of her stall today in the New York Zoological Park and roamed over the park, revisiting scenes of 15 and 20 years ago. That was when the 42-year-old animal used to carry parties of children around the grounds.

The record of Alice's wandering during the early hours of the morning was imprinted in the snow and it showed that she fished a dozen loaves of bread from the park's cookhouse. Years ago, she used to be fed there.

Returning to the elephant house, she butted her head through a glass panel door at the public entrance to the place. Zoo keepers pointed out that once, when Alice was practically a debutante, she became frightened and broke a lot of glass in the reptile house. Since, she has gone in for glass-breaking whenever she could. She liked the sound, the keepers said.

Zoo attendants explained that Alice left her stall because a sewer backed up an inundated the place with several inches of ice cold water.

When the elephant house was opened this morning, Alice was found standing before a steam radiator and looking a little depressed.

Al Smith Reported Ready to Carry His Fight to Convention
New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—The New York Sun said today that Alfred E. Smith has decided to carry his fight on the New Deal to the floor of the Democratic national convention next June by running for delegate from his old Ulster district.

"The brown derby is back in the 1936 campaign to stay until Election Day," the paper said in a story by George Van Slyke, its chief political writer.

"His determination to run for district delegate is another challenge to President Roosevelt, James A. Farley and the New Deal," the paper said. "He has the support of Tammany Hall."

"Mr. Smith is understood to be ready to welcome a contest for the district designation, but it is probable that Farley will not dare risk a showdown."

The Sun said further that there is now a doubt in the minds of Democratic state leaders, for the first time, whether the President will be renominated by acclamation. "Incredible as it may seem," the story said, "practical Democratic leaders, whose great concern is to win the election, are now whispering among themselves that to renominate Mr. Roosevelt might be a political mistake."

"The chance which has come about in the last ten days since Mr. Smith made his Liberty League speech is extraordinary. The party faces an open and disastrous split, with Al Smith faction ready to take a walk, thereby raising the question whether Mr. Roosevelt can be reelected if renominated."

Firebug Sought in California Fire as 2 Men Are Missing

San Bernardino, Calif., Feb. 4 (AP).—Possible incendiary was considered by officials today as they hunted for additional bodies in the charred ruins of a Parker dam construction camp dormitory where at least seven men died in a raging fire.

Twenty-one of the 140 men housed in the dormitory still were unaccounted for. Four others were near death from burns suffered yesterday when they were ravaged the building while they slept.

Officials said it was possible a number of the missing men had escaped from the burning building and left camp without notifying those in charge.

The possibility that a disgruntled workman may have fired the building was investigated by Norma P. Henderson, San Bernardino district attorney's investigator.

A threat against officials of the camp was made three weeks ago by a workman who was ejected for intoxication, Henderson reported. He said attendants had noticed the same man in camp shortly before yesterday's fire.

Recent attempts by radicals to spread labor discontent among the employees of the six companies, contractors for the Colorado river project, were recalled by officials today, but they insisted no one was under suspicion.

Pumps were set up today to drain the dormitory's flooded basement where investigators said several men may have been trapped as they raced through the smoke-choked halls of the building.

The tragedy was the second fatal fire in the brief history of the $250,000,000 water project. A year ago 200 men burned to death in a dormitory blaze at the Cabazon shaft on the Jacinto tunnel line.

Vegetable Meeting At Milton Thursday

There will be a county-wide tomato and vegetable meeting-Thursday, February 6, at Milton Grange Hall, upstairs over the Milton National Bank. Starting time is 10 a. m., and from then until the program ends, there will be many things said and done to interest growers and it won't be "just another day" lost away from the farm.

The program, which according to Assistant County Agent William F. Clark of the Farm Bureau speaks for itself, is as follows:

"The Vegetable Outlook For 1936." There is very little excuse today for any person whether he be farmer or steel manufacturer to proceed in the dark. With the careful system of estimating in advance the seasonal trends of any particular crop or industry, one can with more assurance of success gauge his business accordingly. Therefore considerable time will be given over to the presentation of the 1935 vegetable outlook.

"Selection of Vegetables and Tomatoes." Professor George Raleigh of Cornell University will bring the latest information on how to select vegetables and tomatoes which the markets want even at a premium that is providing they are suitable to Hudson valley conditions.

Dr. P. P. Piroe and Dr. Paim of Cornell will explain the secret of strong well grown vegetable plants, free from diseases and insects, explaining the method of disease and insect control from the seed bed to the field.

The use of commercial fertilizers in vegetable growing will be discussed by Professor Raleigh, who will talk about formulas and how to use and apply them.

This program is also designed to interest home gardeners, both men and women. Many of the problems which apply to large truck gardens also apply to the small garden. Miss Mary Dero, a past president of the Home Bureau, will speak on "Arranging the Home Garden."

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the meeting.

St. Joseph's Card Party at Auditorium

Monday at a meeting of the ladies of St. Joseph's parish and the Holy Name Society, it was decided to hold the annual card party for the benefit of the church in the Municipal Auditorium, Broadway and Hoffman street, instead of in the school hall, uptown.

Decision to hold the party at the Auditorium, instead of the school, was prompted by the magnitude of the affair which becomes larger and larger each year. Last winter, St. Joseph's School hardly afforded facilities for the event, which attracted so many patrons that the school hall, basement and even classrooms were used.

In the spacious Auditorium there will be room for everyone interested in patronizing the charitable affair, and besides cloak room facilities and other essential things going to make up a successful card party will be taken care of.

The date of this year's party is Tuesday evening, February 25. Indications are that it will be bigger and better than ever. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to patronize it.

Special Train Used to Carry Cows to Vacation

Chambers, France.—A special vacation train for cows is the latest innovation of the French railroads. One hundred and twenty-four deluxe cows boarded the Paris Lyons-Mediterranean special recently to pass the winter months in the sunny climate of southern Provence. Enjoying the same privileges as public celebrities, these bovine passengers were able to take advantage of a 10 per cent reduction in railroad fare.

Full fare was paid on the journey to Provence, but each owner was presented a certificate allowing his cow a free return trip southward next spring by another special train.

Oysters Are Hailed as New Kind of Mouse Trap

Wayland, N. Y.—Elias Stevens of Perry, N. Y., proudly announced a new kind of mouse trap and a new use for oysters today.

Stevens left oysters on the floor of his cellar to keep cool. When he returned for his oysters he found one had opened its shell and caught two mice very neatly and tight. One by the nose, the other by the neck.

Determined Youth Pedals to School

Hartford, Conn.—Louis J. Pannal wants a college education so much that he is willing to ride his bicycle 34 miles three nights a week to get it.

Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday he leaves his home here at 6:15 p. m. and arrives at Springfield, Mass., 27 miles away, to train for his first class at Greenfield. It usually is 11 p. m. by the time he is back home again. His reward for riding three nights a week is one hour and 20 minutes. Recently, when he spent the night in a hotel that was the first night he had spent in a hotel since he was a boy, he was given a special reward. He was given a new bicycle and a new coat. He is simply a determined youth.

Morgie Can't Have McDermott, Brooklyn Here Wednesday Night

Kingston cannot have Bobby McDermott. That was the ruling given out by President John J. O'Brien of the American League, Monday afternoon.

Manager Frank Morgenweck did try to buy "Mac" from Johnny Donlon of the Vitellians and the Brooklyn manager was interested in letting his sensational forward go to Kingston for a substantial price. However, when President O'Brien was asked to pass on the deal he squeaked it.

"It would be improper to release McDermott from the Vitellians at this time," is the wire Morgenweck received from the league boss late yesterday.

Monday morning it was learned by The Freeman sports department that Morgie was angling for McDermott. He was in Brooklyn over the week-end with Lefty Kintzler and take care of "league matters" and his bid for the youthful basketball player was one of the things he was deeply concerned with.

Yesterday morning "Pop" would not say definitely that he had made a try for the services of McDermott but did say he was after some younger talent to help him in his bid for the second half title in the American League. Kingston made a fine start but now is in a slump, its last setback being at the hands of the Vitellians in Brooklyn, Sunday night by the score of 24-50. This is the most overwhelming margin of defeat suffered by any club since the beginning of the league this year.

Morgie did plenty of ribbing about the game, saying he was wholly dissatisfied with the way his tossers played. He went so far as to threaten an entire shakeup, intimating he'd bring in a whole new club to represent Kingston if his men didn't "wake up" and play better ball.

"We are getting excellent support here in Kingston and must have a representative club in the American League," Kingston wants that second half title.

Morgie's boys have one more chance to show what they are made of. Wednesday night, Brooklyn plays at the Municipal Auditorium, and if Captain Carlisle Huston's tossers are superior to the flock of Johnny Donlon, this is their chance to show it.

The Kingston fans demand it, they are paying well for it, and if the players can't furnish the kind of ball the customers want now is their time to grab a snow shovel and go to work on the city or do something else for the bacon and eggs.

Indications are that Kingston will start tomorrow with lefty Kintzler and Horace Meyers as forwards, Tim Hearn, center, and Carlisle Huston and Frank Shimek, guards. Al Wyka, the newcomer, and Corky Stanton will be on the bench ready for action.

Brooklyn will come to the Municipal Auditorium with the same flock of tossers who shellacked the daylight out of the Morgenweckers Sunday.

Starting time of the game is 8:45, and if the excess of some people close to the Cities Service players isn't all wet, the setto should be one of those rough and tumble affairs with both clubs extended to the limit.

Grappling Coach Would Eliminate "Riding" Tactics

Ames, Ia. (AP)—Hugo Otopalik, Iowa State college wrestling coach and tutor of the United States Olympic grapplers in 1932, believes amateur wrestling rules should be altered to speed up the matches and make the wrestlers more aggressive, and he has a plan to back his idea.

"No wrestling meet would last longer than an hour and a half," Otopalik recommends in defense of his proposals. "It is entirely possible to drag out for two hours and a half under present rules."

Over time periods for matches ending in ties would be banned under Otopalik's plan, and the time limit on any match would be set at 10 minutes. The elimination of watches to determine time advantages also is recommended. The outcome of matches would be determined by a point system based primarily on the fight, aggressiveness and ability of the contestants.

This would make the wrestlers more aggressive and the wrestling more interesting to the spectators, Otopalik believes.

"If the wrestlers know it will do them no good to go into the ring and 'ride' their opponents as long as possible in order to get a time advantage, they will be considerably more aggressive and instill more action into the matches," he declared.

Baseball's Immortals Voted Places In Hall Of Fame

Players and sportswriters voting in the poll to select players meriting places in baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., could agree only on five men—although scheduled to pick ten—to represent the period from 1900 to the present day. Top choice was Ty Cobb (foreground), the "Georgia Peach," who set a staggering assortment of records in his stormy playing career with the Detroit Tigers. He received 222 votes, only four short of unanimous. The others chosen, left to right, were Babe Ruth and Hans Wagner, who polled 215 votes each; Christy Mathewson, next with 206, and Walter Johnson, fireball king, who qualified with 189. In the background is the memorial hall in Cooperstown where baseball's centennial will be celebrated in 1939. (Associated Press Photos)

THIS GAME OF BASKETBALL

Glenn Jacobs, coach of the Denver team in the Missouri Valley A. A. basketball league, says this play has worked successfully for his team. No. 1 comes out to screen for 4, who passes to 2 at the side while 3 moves in to take the post position outside the free throw lane. No. 2 passes to 3 and cuts around. No. 4 cuts around off the screen formed by 1 and 3 cuts back guardward after screening for 4. No. 2 passes to any of the open men driving toward the goal and remains at his station to receive a pass-back if 1, 4 or 2 get tied up. At the start, 4 may pass directly to 3 to eliminate a cross-court pass to 2.

By GLENN E. JACOBS
Basketball Coach, Denver A. A. U. Team
(Written For The Associated Press)

Denver (AP)—Our offense is undergoing a change this season in order to meet the varied types of defense that are used against us in league competition. We find that the set type of play which we used successfully before the new three-second rule went into effect this year is no longer an efficient weapon of offense to meet a rushing, vigorous type of defense.

Consequently, we have altered our attack to combine both the fast break and fast cutting game with the delayed type of play, thus giving us an effective offensive weapon against any form of defense.

This change, however, takes time and requires a great amount of hard practice. We must break down old habits accumulated over a period of years and form new ones. We do not expect to perfect a smooth-running offense overnight as many of our followers expect us to do; but, with or more every day, each man is learning just what to expect of him as an individual. This enables him to function better in team play.

Zone Defense Returns
It appears to me that the new rules are making a decided difference in both offensive and defensive basketball; that is, both are more varied than they have been in the immediate past. Fast breaks are replacing the delayed attack and more individual defense is apparent to close observers.

Many teams are returning to modified types of zone defense, replacing the assigned and checking type of individual defense. Many ball players in the past have relied altogether on their teammates freeing them for an open shot on a screen or block play and have lost all of their individual talent and technique and are not able to free themselves by a clever feint or dribble.

Clarity of practice and hard work will, however, overcome this deficiency and this phase of the game must not be overlooked. It is important. In order to be effective in basketball as it is played today, a man must be in the best of physical condition and this is brought about by hard work.

Center Jump Prediction
I believe in the near future the center jump will be eliminated in order to speed up the game. The spectators like action fast and furious and our job, along with trying to win games, is to give the basketball-minded people what they want. However, I believe the center jump

Pics Among Favorites

Denver (AP)—Glenn E. Jacobs is coach of the Denver A. A. U. team known as "The Pies," one of the favorites in the national basketball tournament to be played in this mid-high city in March. The Pies were upset victims in the tournament here last year.

Jacobs, an alumnus of Greeley (Colo.) State College, formerly coached a Rocky Mountain intercollegiate champion team, at Greeley, which played in the national high school tournament and he was tutor to the courtiers of New Mexico Normal, who won conference, state and southwestern championships three years straight.

experimented with it in our Missouri Valley A. A. U. league and I could not say anything definite regarding the merits of its elimination.

I believe the rules as they now stand are proving very satisfactory to both player and spectator. The game has been speeded up with various types of fast breaks down the floor and feints, cuts, and reverses inside the opponents' defense, giving the patrons a complete 40-minute thrill.

Presbyterians, Clinton Avenue And Port Ewen Win Monday Night

The first games scheduled for the second half of the Church Basketball League were played at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night and resulted in victories for Port Ewen, Clinton Avenue and the Presbyterians.

In the first game of the evening, between the Presbyterians and the Trinity M. E. five, the former scored a 25 to 20 victory. With Bill Thomas and Al Blackwell pumping the ball through the hoops the winners held an 18 to 8 lead at the half and scored at will after the recess. Thomas, with 12 points and Blackwell with five fields, led the Presbyterians. Markle scored seven points to pace the losers.

Clinton Avenue ran wild in the second game, defeating the Comforters by the score of 17 to 12. With Edou controlling the tap the Aces put on a brilliant performance, leading at the half 28 to 5 and midway through the final quarter holding a 44 to 13 advantage. Cowboy Every with 14 points, White Myers with 12 and Alderman Haines with ten led the winners. For the losers Al Roosa was high man with three fields and a foul.

In the final game Port Ewen annexed its seventh straight victory in Church League competition, turning back the Redeemers 27 to 15. The game was rough and hard-fought throughout. The boys from across the creek held a 17 to 7 lead at the half and were able to hold the lead through the last session. Al Short, with nine points, led the winners while Markle with seven points, was high for the losers.

OUTSTANDING ON THE DIAMOND

Probably Frank Roth, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tiger catcher, are shown with the players awarded them for outstanding service to baseball at the annual dinner of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association—Frank for his services over a period of years, and Greenberg for being the "player of the year" last season. The Situation Among the Right Fielders This Year

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—Among other things, the right field patrol offers an excellent chance for several of the wounded or missing to make come-backs along the major league baseball front this spring.

Outstanding in this respect are Wally Moses of the Athletics, Bruce Campbell of the Cleveland Indians and Chuck Klein of the Chicago Cubs.

Moses, freshman sensation among American League outfielders last season, and Campbell, obtained by the tribe from St. Louis, both were hitting at a .32 clip forced out of action. Moses broke an arm in mid-season and Campbell was taken dangerously ill with meningitis. Full recovery for both will mean regular jobs again.

Klein, one-time batting king who became a $125,000 benchwarmer last year after falling off to .289 at bat, hopes to pick up where he left off in the world series. An accident to Fred Lindstrom gave Chuck his chance to show a burst of old-time power. The subsequent release of Lindstrom indicates the Cubs will start off with Klein at his old stand, in right-field, and Frank Demaree shifting to center.

Except for standbys such as Paul Waner of the Pirates, John Mauer of the Phillies, Mel Ott of the Giants and Pete Fox of the world champion Tigers, there's a scramble for right field jobs.

The St. Louis Cardinals figure to solve their problem by shifting Pepper Martin back to the wide open spaces, replacing Jack Rothman, who has been released to the minors.

The Yankees still are troubled with the situation created by the passing of the one and only Babe Ruth. Young George Selkirk displaced Roy Johnson, part Indian from Oklahoma, shuttled to the big team from Boston by way of Washington, will get first call this season.

Taking their cue from the Cardinals, the Red Sox may experiment with the speedy Bill Werber, a third baseman, in right field. Mel Almada and Dusty Cooke, also will be available for the tryouts at Saratoga.

Otherwise, in the American League, the starting right-fielders likely will include Vernon (George) Washington's Senators.

Brooklyn has a rare assortment from which to pick, including Ralph Boyle and Stan Bordagary, who divided the assignment last season; Randy Moore, from Boston and Oscar Ekhardt, king of the minor league batmen from San Francisco's Mission.

New Gunshot Murder Alarms Scotland Yard

London, Feb. 4 (AP)—A new gunshot murder, the second within two weeks in the metropolitan London area, today caused alarm in Scotland Yard because of the sudden discovery that criminals in "gunless England" have firearms.

Today's victim was Arthur Mead, a butcher, who said before he died that a stranger had entered the train compartment in which he was riding and shot him pointblank.

The other shooting was on January 25, when Max Kamel was "taken for a ride" in American style. The Kamel killing has not yet been solved.

Speed Limit Bill Before Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—The New York legislature had before it today a bill designed to enact a maximum speed limit of 30 miles an hour on New York state highways.

In conference with one of Governor Herbert H. Lehman's major recommendations to curb increasing fatalities.

Senator Julius A. Rose, Democrat, introduced the bill last night. The measure proposed to apply the limit to both automobiles and motorcycles.

The maximum speed for trucks would be 40 miles an hour.

The governor, in his annual message, said that he was not prepared yet to accept the suggestion that a maximum speed be placed on automobiles to curb the speed.

But, he said, "because comparative results are rapidly obtained, I would favor the general and automatic control and limitation of speed."

King's Parliament Holds No Ceremony

London, Feb. 4 (AP)—The first Parliament of the reign of King Edward VIII assembled without ceremony today, launching its deliberations to strike squarely into the problem of increasing the national defenses.

Under the shadow of persistent international tension, armaments and how to pay for them constituted the new session's principal business, with a number of important domestic issues crowding closely behind them.

A royal message, replying to the parliamentary condolences for the death of King George V, was sent by King Edward to be read in the House of Commons.

Parliamentary sources looked for Anthony Eden to explain then, in his first speech to the house as foreign secretary, the latest developments of the government's policy in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Parliament adjourned just before Christmas and, save for a special meeting after the death of King George to express its sorrow and to take the oaths of allegiance to the new king-emperor, it had not met since then.

The cabinet's defense subcommittee concluded its studies and Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was expected to lay the defense budget plans before the House of Commons immediately.

This brought up the probability of a full dress debate on Great Britain's entire defense problem.

Bitter labor opposition to the government program for strengthening the national defense was anticipated, but parliamentary sources said there appeared to be no doubt that the Conservatives would carry the issue.

Informal sources said Baldwin would seek some $1,000,000,000 through a defense loan for "repairing the deficiencies of the national defense," the bulk of the fund to be used to expand the air force.

Gold Sales May Curb U. S. Inflation Drive

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—Gold began to trickle away today from America's $19,182,000,000 reservoir of the yellow metal, leading to speculation as to whether the inflation drive in Congress would be checked.

Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday that banks had asked and received treasury licenses to ship $5,605,000 in gold from the United States to France and Holland.

This development, reversing a westward flow which had brought $2,000,000,000 of gold from Europe to the United States in 16 months, was linked with current demands by congressional inflationists that the treasury print paper money to pay off the bonus, finance farm subsidies, and aid distressed agricultural debtors.

In foreign exchange markets, it was said that money trading apparently had felt the effects of the drive to expand the currency rather than levy new taxes.

Whether the comparatively tiny shipments were the forerunner of a sizeable outgo was a subject of guessing. Experts said that often, when such a movement starts, it tends to gain momentum.

On the other hand, some felt that the treasury's readiness to meet demands for export licenses might check the movement.

Secretary Morgenthau, who explained briefly that the French franc had risen to the point where banks could profit by exporting gold, said that if this situation continued further shipments would be permitted as long as present exchange mechanisms are undisturbed.

If such licenses were refused, informed students of the subject said, the United States would thereby go off the present "gold bullion" standard, leaving the dollar without its "anchor" in gold. There was no indication anywhere that such a refusal was a possibility.

Since inflationists have been pointing to the huge supply of gold in the country and declaring that new money should be issued against the "idle" metal, there was discussion here as to whether an outflow of gold might tend to curb their campaign.

Road Construction Taxpayers' Subject

A lecture and film talk, "The Open Road," was the feature of the Kingston Taxpayers Association meeting, Monday night in the chambers of City Judge Bernard A. Culloton at the city hall.

Rowland Rogers, representative of The Community Film Talks, was the lecturer, and he urged the group to take an active part in the development of highways and to further the construction of good roads.

In conjunction with the film talk, James O. Spear, automobile editor of the New York Times, sent his thoughts to the meeting in the form of a phonograph record which was put on a phonograph for the taxpayers to hear. Good roads not only go to prevent accidents, said the Spear voice, but the construction of them help to solve the unemployment problem.

According to figures quoted only about 15 per cent of America's three million miles of roads are adequately developed for modern travel, and only about five per cent of the highways are the proper kinds of roads.
